Career Education Is PTSA Subject

The Monterey Peninsula Unified School District's Career Education Project will be discussed at a meeting of the Seaside High School Parent Teacher Student Association tomorrow, Thursday, at 7:30 p.m. in Halleck Cafeteria.

Mrs. Lilian Ullman, project developer for secondary schools, will explain career education and lead a panel of teachers who have written programs incorporating career education concepts.

The panel will answer questions from the audience. Parents and students have been invited to attend.

Talcott Visits Big Sur

U.S. Congressman Burt L. Talcott toured the Big Sur earth slides and wash outs earlier this month.

Although the Federal disaster regulations have been changed since Big Sur was declared a disaster area earlier this winter, the Congreeman believes the newest victims will be included in the previous declaration.

"I will work to make certain that the Boast Gallery and Goph's Studio become eligible for conventional Small Business Adminstration (SBA) disaster relief," stated the Congressman, referring to two enterprises suffering the most damage during the storm last weekend.

Congressman Talcott sent condolences to Mrs. Robert Huss, the young wife of the Division of Highways heavy equipment operator who lost his life attempting to clear the highway (State Route 1) and to protect the property jeopardized by the flood waters.

"One is mightily impressed by a drive down Cabrillo Highway - by the magnificent beauty and enormous power of nature. By the dedication of public employees of the California Highway Patrol, the Division of Highways, the U.S. Forest Service and others who have been working long and hard to save life, protect property, and preserve our natural resources," declared Talcott, "And also by the hope and optimism of the victims - where one might have expected bitterness and despair in the face of almost total losses."

"Perhaps the Big Sur community can be rehabilitated on a safer location, perhaps the highway can be reconstructed without again interrupting nature, perhaps the business, recreational and residential damage can be repaired, but the lost life cannot be reclaimed," concluded Congressman Talcott.

"Young Robert Huss responded to a plea for help and died performing his job. I express my gratitude for his public service. It is unfortunate that a disaster is required to call attention to the dedicated services that are performed for us day and night, in storm and fair weather by public employees."

Volunteers Are Needed

The Monterey County Suicide Prevention Center is seeking new volunteer for their staff.

Classes will begin on Thursday, March 1 and will meet every Monday and Thursday from that date through April 2. A screening committee must approve all applicants before the training class commences. The course consists of lectures, study discussion groups, practice call sessions and a final exam and evaluation session. All volunteers are expected to devote four hours a week to phone duty.

For further details, applicants may dial 373-0713 or 373-6363.

Luncheon Scheduled

The Democratic Women's Club of Monterey County will sponsor a buffet luncheon on Friday, February 23 at 12 noon.

Donation is $1.50 and the public is invited. Speakers will be Julian Camacho, Suzanne Paizes and the newly elecaed Democratic Central Committee chairman, Harry Clarkson. The topic will be "Objectives, Target '74."

He came to Seaside in 1950 and is now serving his third term as president of the local branch of the National Association For the Advancement of Colored People. He attended the national NAACP convention and has been instrumental in obtaining many jobs for teachers and police workers in the area.

Racial Balance And Integration

BY Tony C. Sison
President of Fil-American Club

My name is Tony C. Sison, a Senior-Citizen, representing the Fil-American Club. I am here with the consent and blessing of my Filipino people. I am here with vision of courage and dedication to participate and to present to you an ideal plan for racial balance and integration of our children in our public schools. We are a silent minority, but we are concerned for the future of our children.

You and I are here because we believe in America; in what America could mean to all its citizens; and in an America that cares for its people. So without bias or prejudice let us get together, work together, and communicate intelligently to find the best ideal solution for integration in our schools.

Can we solve racial prejudice and discrimination in America? Can we achieve a pluralistic society as envisioned by the founding fathers as dreamed by Jefferson, Lincoln, Franklin Roosevelt, Kennedy, Johnson, Rev. Martin Luther King, and many others?

Yes, if we believe in America. We must have an integrated America, not a segregated America. The Constitution requires equal protection for all under the law. I am sure nobody who believes in the American way of life wants to change the fundamental principles of our Republic.

Let us face it, the courts have ruled that segregated schools are inherently unequal, and hence unconstitutional because they deny children equal education and equal opportunities. The courts have said that busing is one way to bring about equal education opportunities. However, the courts have not said that busing is the only way. There are other far better alternatives. For example, your plans of redistricting, changing boundaries, closing facilities, interchanging, one way busing, magnet, educational park, zone, neighborhood and pupil placements. Any of these plans is good if you can change the minds and hearts of the rest of our people just like you who believe in America. Any of these plans is alright if we could teach our kids that love of God and thy neighbors is essential for integrating America.

If you adopt zoning or any of your plans, many white Americans will start moving and migrating to other areas probably Prunedale, Carmel and other places nearby where there are no ethnic groups. The Black Americans, Mexican Americans, Japanese Americans, Filipino Americans, Chinese Americans, and other minority groups will reamin to stay and hence it will be an ethnic community again. The only White Americans to stay with us are those who believe in America and the Politicians.

So, the university or college type, high school and Jr. High School are the ideal plan because in this type of central school, we are not only integrating the kids, but also parents, school teachers, and other people connected in the schools.

The kindergarten and primary schools should be the only neighborhood schools. Let us see that the young children get educated near our houses before they get bused far from our homes. Busing the children is frustrating and makes parents worry too much. By the way, kids don't understand prejudice and discrimination unless parents tell them.

There were no racial problems in the old days, in our cities, or communities when there was only one high school nearby. It was a good American way of life. Let us get back to it, and up-grade our teaching, counseling, and improve our curricula in dozens of different innovating ways to bring about one America indivisible with liberty and justice for all. That flag that we have saluted to and pledged our allegience to stands for the people of America--the home of the brave and the free. America beautiful is heaven for all of us immigrants regardless of race and creed. Let us keep it that way as envisioned and dreamed by the framers of our Constitution. If we can't solve integration peacefully, let us invite Mr. Henry Kissenger. Thank you very much for listening.

Play Is Set

Sierra Club Statement Concerning Sand City Beach

(Statement by Ventana Chapter, Sierra Club, on

"Sand City Feasibility Study for Groin and Public Beach," prepared by Department of Navigation and Ocean Development,

Resources Agency, State of California)

The Ventana Chapter of Sierra Club recommends that:

1. The State Lands Commission should refuse to issue permits for the continuation of further construction by the back-dumping of concrete rubble in the Sand City vicinity, at and near the foot of Tioga Avenue.

2. Because of SAND CITY FEASIBILITY STUDY FOR GROIN AND PUBLIC BEACH is considered by the Department of Navigation and Ocean Development to be only a "preliminary study". . ."a cursory treatment". . . .based on "limited field surveys," no conclusions as to the desirability or need for any new construction in Monterey Bay are possible at this time. Certainly, no new construction as consequential as a groin (alternative 1 in the STUDY) or groins (alternative 2), or off-shore barriers (alternatives 3 and 4), can or should be undertaken until additional, more thorough study definitely establishes the need for it.

3. The chief objections to the proposed construction of a groin (or groins) are that:

(a) it remains uncertain that a significant sand drift problem exists in the area, and that a groin would be the most desirable solution if the problem did exist;

(b) it is not reasonably certain at this time that ONE groin would be adequate. The STUDY states that a second groin (which is termed "not economically justified at this time") might well be needed upcoast from the first to hold the sand fill in place; and

(c) a groin is a visual intrusion on the shoreline, interrupting the crescentic symmetry of the Bay, and constituting a barrier and a hazard to navigation.

(d) if the sand fill DID indeed migrate, the one groinconstruction project would have been proven to be (at least partially) amistake, and its cost an "investment" that could only be salvaged by the further construction of a second (auxiliary) groin, which would of course considerably increase the true cost of the total project.

The highly plausible course of events just described illustrates how very weak is the argument for pursuing the "most economical plan" (alternative 1), and constitutes strong justification for NOT pursuing it.

4. The Ventana Chapter of Sierra Club believes that the City of Sand City and the Calabrese Supply Co. should be required to remove the rubble embankment at their own expense because:

(a) the embankment and the associated fill are, in the words of the FEASIBILITY STUDY, "apparently illegal because no permits were issued by the State Lands Commission for these existing structures to be constructed on State lands (page 3). . .and an "unauthorized encroachment on the tide and submerged lands" (page 5).

(b) the mere annexation of tidal and submerged lands by the City of Sand City did not convey property rights. These lands are still under the exclusive jurisdiction of the State Lands Commission.

(c) the embankment is an eyesore, disrupting one of the most beautiful sweeps of bay coastline anywhere.

(d) the embankment restricts and creates hazards to movement up and down the beach. Because it extends into tidal waters it is in violation of the proscription against interference with navigable waters, which are deemed to extend into the tidal zone.

(e) because the public had previously and customarily used the beach before the placement of the rubble, the beach can be considered to have a Gion easement on it, which would prohibit a private property owner from denying to the public, by a construction of any kind, use of that part of the beach lying above the Mean High Tide Line. (See GION V. CITY OF SANTA CRUZ. The Gion principle has been reaffirmed in Santa Monica, Marin County, and in the City of Long Beach in March, 1972).

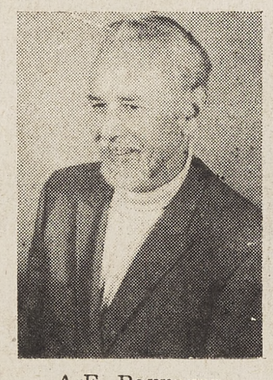

the rubble embankment also illegally denies the public the right to use that part of the baech lying BELOW the Mean High Tide Line, which in this State marks the property boundary between the upland owner (i.e., Calabrese Supply Co.) and the tidelands and submerged lands owner (i.e., the State). Accordingly, the public normally has the right to use the beach below the Mean High Tide Line. Encroachment of the massive shoreline fill at and near Tioga Avenue prohibits public use of public property. It should be noted that on the original beach, and on the beaches that lie adjacent to the dump, the Mean High Tide line is not fixed in location, but moves seaward and landward from day to day and with the seasons. Accordingly, a structure placed on the beach landward of the Mean High Tide line may at times lie seaward of the Mean High Tide line, and hence on public property (reference: PEOPLE V. KENT CO.)

A.E. Barragan

What a weekend!!! Many more of these and I will be unable to distinquish my duties in regards to the newspaper from my duties to my self-satisfying ventures. These pleasures will be greatly missed when my boss, Andy, shoves his deuce of benders (knees) under his desk again, and I must return to my menial duties. I suppose I should put duties in their correct perspective by permitting our "Entertainment Specialist," Vicky, to tell it like it is in her column.

Speaking of duties, (yes we were), each and everyone of us has a duty to perform. Webster says duty means "obligatory service." That is a definition in the broadest sense. Those of you who have been reading my columns surely realize by now that I can not accept the broadest definition of any word, or phrase. Se we shall attempt to break this word down to its most common denominator. To do that we must realize that there is a difference between duty and obligation.

We know that a grocer should not overcharge his inexperienced customer. Also, where there is competition he should keep a fixed and general price for everybody so that a child can buy from him. In other words he should remain honest. But this is not enough to justify us in believing that he is acting in this way from duty or from principles of fair play or self-interest: to keep his customers from shop-

ARMY RECRUITER

Hello everybody.

Several years ago a trade publication annouced new advancements in the field of medical research. The findings concerned a genetic breakthrough that would someday make possible the mass reproduction of any individual by a process called "cloning." A medical research team at the University of Wisconsin uncovered a way to isolate the game, the hereditary-determing characteristic in humans. Having done this, the research team said that in the not too distant future it would be possible to take tiny skin grafts from the arm of a person, isolate the gene within the cells and produce an unlimited number of people with the identical genetic makeup of that individual.

Much of this is still speculative. But that's the exciting thing about the whole business of medical research. It is full of new ideas and fresh adaptions of the old. And it's pregnant with hope and promise for the future. Today there is a great need for Medical Specialists throughout the nation. To significantly advance the already considerable amount of medical data filed in the records of research centers, a person has to be familiar with that data. He must master its contents and be able to perceive its limitations. Such a man or woman is very depent upon the accuracy of these records and their accessibility.

One way of learning the medical administrative business with starting salary $307.20 a month, FREE room and board, FREE medical and dental plus 30 paid days of vacationing a year, is in TODAY'S ARMY. It can begin for you right here, Technical Training for your future career. Young men and women interested in getting a start in this area will find TODAY'S ARMY is an eager and stable employer.

More importantly, TODAY'S ARMY medical records specialists receive very intensive and fundamental ins truction in every facet of the job.

MEDDAC Sergeants Help Each Other

WILL REAL FIRST SERGEANT PLEASE STAND UP? - Looking like a trio of To Tell The Truth contestants, First Sergeants Allen M. Calvery (left), Gearlee Rogers (center), and Ted A. Cunningham sit behind desk they have all occupied.

Triangles have always spelled trouble, but you couldn't find a more amicable threesome than in the Medical Enlisted Company, MEDDAC.

Since February 1971, First Sergeants Gearlee Rogers, Ed. A. Cunningham and Allen M. Calvery have all been each other's first sergeant. How was it done? Here's the answer to the riddle:

When the Medical Enlisted Company's original first sergeant suffered a heart attack, Cunningham, then the assistant chief ward master of nursing services at Silas B. Hays Army Hospital, Ft. Ord, came in as pinch hitter.

As this was his secondary MOS, he was replaced in July 1971 by Calvery from dispensary services.

Everything was going smoothly until the same position in the Medical Holding Company became open. The enlisted company lost their first sergeant again, and a new face appeared on the scene.

In May of '72, Rogers moved in. Four months later, Fate played him a double trick. He got orders for Korea, and two hours before leaving for his new assignment he slipped while bowling and was hospitalized with a slipped disc.

While the unlucky bowler was recovering, Cunningham moved back in to the "top" spot. The Korean orders were cancelled, and in February 1973, Rogers was re-assigned to his old company.

With the situation at a checkmate, the trio finally had a chance to analyze their rather unique relationship.

Cunningham, a member of the Monterey Peninsula School Board and a Seaside resident, said, "We've always been able to maintain a good relationship and never had any problem or conflict."

"It's very reassuring to know that if you ever need any help in your job you have a handy reference in which you have a great deal of confidence," commented Calvery, who lives at Ft. Ord with his wife, Marie.

First Sergeant Rogers, who lives in Marina, topped it off with, "It's just another one of those things."

'The Ugly Duckling' Is This Sunday

Sunday, February 25, Hans Christian Andersen's "The Ugly Duckling" will come to life at the White Oaks Theatre in Carmel Valley. The Magic Carpet, Hidden Valley's Theatre for Children, will present The Ugly Duckling and other favorite folk stories. There will be shows at 2:30 and 4 p.m.

Andersen's classic tale is about an ugly duckling who is rejected and then ejected from the duckyard where he is born. The duckling goes out into the world and everyone he meets tells him how ugly he is. He spends a cold and lonely winter, but in the spring, he finds he has grown stronger. When he sees his reflection in a pond, he realizes he is no longer an ugly duckling but a beautiful swan. Other stories that will be performed by the Magic Carpet are "Froggie Went A Courtin'", Karl Katz, The Hedgehog and the Hare," "The Brementown Musicians," and "King Midus."

Back again with the Magic Carpet are favorites Debbie Berry, John Bristol, Greg Fessler, Steve and June Fy, Carlo Grossman, John Rousseau, and Wynn White. The "Children's Mime Troupe" is directed by Jim Mairs for the Hidden Valley Music Seminars.

"The Ugly Duckling" plays one day only, Sunday, February 25 at 2:30 and 4 p.m. Tickets are available at the door, at the Thunderbird Book Shop in Carmel Valley, and Room 5 at the Sunset Center. Prices are $.75 for kids, $1.25 for adults. For more information, please call 624-6911.

Fort Ord Retirement Parade

Command Sergeant Major Wilbert L. Hopkins was honored during a retirement parade at Fort Ord on Friday, January 26. He officially retired January 31, after spending a 30 year term of honorable active service in the United States Army.

In the past 30 years Hopkins has served the Army and his nation with dedication, courage and firmness. His contributions have been many culminating in an outpouring of his knowledge experience and desire, which served as building blocks for a new and dynamic unit in the Army's structure.

CSM Hopkins entered the Army from Washington, D.C., in August of 1942. His first assignment was at Fort Meade, Maryland. From there he was assigned to McDill Airforce Base Florida, where he served in an Engineering unit. At the height of World War Two, he was assigned to the Philippines, first to the island of Leyte, then later with the force that secured the freedom of Manila. After the war, he was assigned for a short time to Fort Lee, where he received his first formal instruction in supply operations. From Lee he was assigned to Japan and served at the Kobe QM Deport as a 1st Sergeant. Korea came along and the Sergeant Major was right there as a 1st Sergeant of a transportation company. After the War, he was assigned to Fort Ord; again as a 1st Sergeant for a transportation company. The following years saw three additional tours at Fort Ord, two at Fort Lewis, two in Vietnam and one additional one in Korea. His last tour in Vietnam was as Command Sergeant Major of the 266 Supply and Service Battalion, which was very actively involved with the war effort. CSM Hopkins' terminal assignment at Fort Lewis, Washington, was initially as CSM of the USA Replacement Station and then as CSM of the 9th Supply and Transport Battalion.

Sergeant Major Hopkins' awards include 3 Bronze Star Medals, the Meritorious Service Medal, two Army Commendation Medals and the award of the Legion of Merit.

During a farewell reception in honor of CSM Hopkins at Fort Lewis, on January 8, LTC James E. Dougherty, CDR, 9th Supply and Transportation Battalion, made many favorable compliments about Hopkins during his speech. He ended his talk by saying "This week we all bid you farewell and wish you God's speed as you launch into new endeavors on the civilian side of things. We know that you will always keep the Army as number one, but we also know that you will find the same success in the civilian community as you have found in the Army." He went on to say "So as you leave the Army that you love so much, we feel you have every right to use the words Saint Paul wrote in his letter to Timothy:"

"The time of my departure has come
I have fought the good fight
I have finished the Race
I have kept the faith"

CSM Hopkins resides in Seaside with his lovely wife Mildred. His plans are to continue working in the supervisory area.

Camp Closed

Boy Scout Camp Pico Blanco, located along the Little Sur River, is closed because of the washout of the 3 mile road extending into the camp, it was announced by Frank Buck, Scout Executive.

The 1,500 acre camp is 16 miles south of Monterey and 10 miles southeast on the Palo Colorado Road and serves thousands of Scouts in this area every year.

Heavy rains, similar to those experienced at Big Sur have flooded the camp and washed away huge sections of the road owned by the Scouts which is the only access to the camp.

Scout officials request any financial help, or use of road repair equipment that can be offered, because of their lack of funds to rebuild the road. The Council Office is located at 55 San Joaquin St., Salinas, phone, 422-5338.

ping elsewhere. It is possible that this action was done neither from duty nor from immediate inclination, but solely from purposes of self-interest.

To preserve one's life is a duty and everyone has an inclination to do so. That is, they protect their lives in conformity with duty, but not from the motive of duty. When disappointments and hopeless misery have taken away the taste for life; when a man, strong in soul and more angered at his fate than faint-hearted or cast down, longs for death and still preserves his life without living it, (not from inclination or fear but from duty), then his principle has a moral content.

To help others where one can is a duty, if they find an inner pleasure in spreading happiness around them and can take delight in the contentment of others as their own work. An action of this kind, however right and however amiable it may be, has still no genuinely moral worth. It stands in the same class (in my estimation) as other inclinations. For example, the inclination for honor, which if fortunate enough to hit on something beneficial and right and consequently honorable, deserves praise and encouragement, but not exteem, for the principle lacks moral content. But suppose that the mind of this friend of man were overclouded by sorrows of his own which extinguished all sympathy with the fate of others, but that he still had power to help those in distress, and suppose that he tears himself "out of himself" and does the action without any inclination for the sake of duty alone; then, for the first time, his action has its genuine moral worth.

Still further: let's suppose that nature had put little or no sympathy in this man's heart. Let's say, being in other respects he was an honest man but cold in temperament and indifferent to the sufferings of others. But being gifted with patience and endurance in his own sufferings, he assumed the like in others and even at times demanded it; if such a man (who would not be the worst product of nature) were not a philanthropist, would he not still find in himself a source from which he might draw a worth far higher than any thata good-natured temperament can have? Of course he would. This is where the worth of a character begins to show - a moral worth and beyond all comparison the highest - namely, that he does good, not from inclination, but from duty.

One last point: To assure one's own happiness is a duty. Discontent with one's state, in a press of cares and amidst unsatisfied wants, might easily become a great temptation to the transgression of duty. But here also, all men already have a strong and deep inclination towards happiness. The prescription for happiness is often so constituted that sometimes it interferes with some inclinations. For example, a man suffering with a bad heart may choose to enjoy what he likes and put up with what he can, on the ground that on balance, he has at least not killed the enjoyment of the present moment because of some possible groundless expectations of the good fortune supposed to attach to soundness of health. But when the inclination towards happiness has failed to determine his will, when good health, for him, has not entered into his calculations as so necessary, what remains, now hear this, is a law - the law of furthering his happiness, not from inclination, but from duty. Then for the first time his conduct has a real moral worth.

The Scripture commands us to love our neighbor and our enemy. Love out of inclination cannot be commanded. Kindness done from duty is practical. Love residing in the will and not in the feelings, in principles of action and not of melting compassion, is the love which can be an object of command.

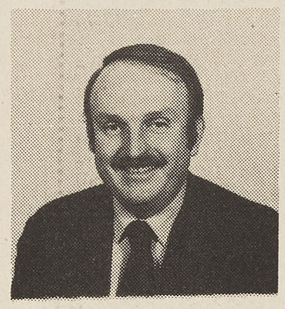

Well, here I am at the end of the column and still soaring sky high. It's a long way to drop down. I need you now Andy. Hey, why not ride a mini-bike down?

I attended the mini-bike races last Sunday at Spartan Raceway. Those kids have much more nerve than I. There were some girls racing on those little jitneys that some of the boys couldn't beat. One mother was heard asking her son, "Why did you let that girl beat you?" His excuse was a "slipping" clutch.

Andy is doing fine, and like I said previously, pretty soon I will be out pounding the "beat" and he will have the gravy. This was a beautiful weekend. One of the best long weekends this year and Andy enjoyed every minute of it too. So I did not have all the gravy.

Keep a stiff upper lip. See you in church, B.

PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION IN MONTEREY COUNTY

The Monterey County Board of Supervisors has agreed to continue with the Peninsula cities in providing a $3,000 a month subsidy to Bay Rapid Transit Company for bus service until September 30. It is probably that the local subsidy cannot continue beyond September 30, 1973.

In a recent study of bus transportation in Monterey County, it was found that only those who have no choice ride the bus. That is, they are "captive" riders. Less than one-percent of travel in Monterey County is made by public transport. The typical bus user is either under 18, over 65, or a member of a one-car family. Travel times by bus in Monterey County are longer than by private automobile and parking costs are negligible. Future bus transportation must recognize the needs of these "captive" riders and not make an attempt to attract "choice" riders. A "choice" rider is one who has a choice between using his car or riding the bus.

JOINT POWERS AGENCY, composed of the County and Peninsula cities concerned, is seeking a permanent solution to the problem of adequate bus transportation. This solution will include monies from the state gasoline sales tax.

GOOD VIBRATIONS
BY Brother Christopher

As I walk pass people in downtown Monterey I often pick up some very good feelings, and then sometimes the feelings are not so good. Is that vibes? Well, I certainly hope so! "They" tell me good vibes can be accomplished with positive thinking, or good intentions. I am inclined to believe that rightness of purpose determines a persons vibratic out put.

What are vibes? Are they the electrical impulses or waves generated by the brain? And what about in windy weather? Can vibes be transfered from person to person? Are vibes based on the natural magnitism of the human body and with body chemistry? And if so, from what point in the body are they conceived and how are they directed? If it is a matter of will, should there by some method of control established to prevent your bad vibes from conflicting with my good ones?! What about vibe detectors, have they all ready been invented or, for that matter, what kind of devices do we have already in our homes which have the power to change the vibrations of our homes? Look around you! Do you get good vibes from your radio? You will if it plays something you especially enjoy. And television, does it make you laugh and cry, or shrink in horror? . . . What are vibes?

Let me speculate at this point and define the subject in question as magnitism created by the generated impulses of our basic desire. When hungry we radiate feed-me vibes, and when angry do we then radiate hate vibes? And when we are in love are they love-me vibes which attracts the attention of passers-by?

We could reevaluate the questions of positive thinking and persuasion and we could go on for three or four thousand pages expounding other interesting theory never arriving at a concrete conclusion!

If as I have established vibrations are basic and dependent upon our intentions then we have only to maintain a pleasant disposition through out our daily life and everybody will be sending those "GOOD VIBRATIONS." Knowing this is a fantasy, I hope you will consider the possibilities of these thoughts with the reality of our limitations.

I have often wondered what would happen if everyone shared a common GOOD thought what kind of vibes would be floating around; that is presuming that vibes float. If after reading these words you don't find a way to generate good vibrations, then please continue to experiment along the above lines. Let LOVE be your guide.

Letter to the Editor

Editor:

Many citizens of California are aware that under Governor Reagan's 1971 Welfare Reform Act, adult children of elderly citizens receiving Old Age Security are required to contribute to the State between 8 percent to 12 percent of their NET income.

The "Great Modern State of California" is one of the few states in this nation having such a cruel law affecting their senior citizens, a law which has created serious rifts in young families trying to rear and educate their own children at todays inflated prices, and which has endangered the ability of middle-aged citizens to save for their own retirement. Many states which at one time had this antiquated law on their books have long ago eliminated it not only because of the hardships which it created, but also because they found it too costly to administer. Other states have never had this law, and report that those elderly persons without sufficient means of support are entitled to a state pension because they have been productive, taxpaying citizens and now deserve to live out their lives in dignity. This dignity has been stripped from the elderly in California.

Two bills have again been introduced this year to eliminate the Relative Responsibility Law. We urge all people who believe in maintaining dignity for aging citizens to write their legislators urging them to support these two bills, and to write to Governor Reagan urging him to sign these bills. The two bills are: SB 7 (Dills) and AB 57 (Gonsalves). We also invite you to contact our organization.

FAITH TO STAND
by Elijah Williams

A close firend gave me a clipping of an article from a magazine. The article said, "The life of faith is distinguished from the life of sight in that it sees beyond incidents to their deeper meaning. The Scriptures reveal that all things work together for good to those who are a part of God's purpose (Rom. 8:28). For a Christian, each day is a step in maturing faith, a new experience in the faithfulness of God, and a demonstration of His supernatural power. As a result, some day Christ will present to Himself a "glorious church," sanctified and prepared for our eternal relationship to Him as His heavenly Bride. LIFE WITHOUT FAITH IS MEANINGLESS. But life with faith experiences heavenly joy even in the midst of eartly trials. With the eye of faith, life is a beautiful tapestry of divine love intertwined with human experience.

When you pray - Ask the Lord to open your eyes to see God's plan as He sees it, perfected in love; to help you trust where you do not understand, awaiting His explanation.

As I See It

BY MEL VERCOE

Joe McGilp is a small time farmer someplace in the American hinterland. Mr. McGilp had some questions about the government farm subsidy program and wrote to Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. Washington, D.C.,

I am worried about my corn crop for next year. For several years I did not plant any extra corn because I was waiting for the guaranteed income. As soon as it came through I was going to take my dog and maybe my wife and go someplace else and retire, but it didn't so I can't, and I want to know what to do about the corn.

Next year I was going to pretend to plant two more acres of corn so I could get fifty dollars from you for not planting it, but now I heard the subsidy is going to be cut off so you will be able to give seven and a half billion dollars to Indochina to build it up again. Can you tell me how much the fare is to Indochina, and how much corn I would have to plant there to get some of the seven and a half billion dollars? Yours truly, Joe McGilp.

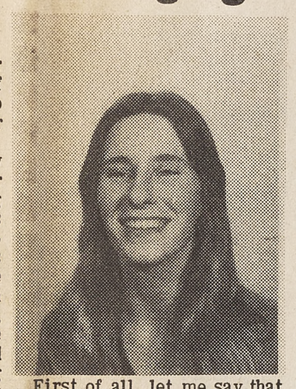

Dear. Mr. McGilp,

We regret to inform you that because you are an American farmer who helped put up the money you would not be eligible to receive any of it. However, if you can see your way clear to become a defense contractor we will pay your expenses to and from Asia and will pay all your expenses while there in addition to ten percent if you will keep smiling and keep your mouth shut.

As a farmer you probably have had experience in filling post-holes. We have many holes there that need filling. You should know before hand that the work could be hazardous, partly because some of the shells and bombs didn't explode properly, and partly because we are still making holes in two of the countries. We adviseyou to get in on this lucrative program as soon as possible, because some of the people who are going to have to pay for it are beginning to wise up, and may soon want us to just dig the holes and fill them up here in America where they can work on them without travelling so far.

Yours truly, Betty Sedalot

Swinging With Vicky

First of all, let me say that this must have been one of the most happeningest weekends Seaside has had, with definitely more to come this next weekend.

So far the Del Rey Cultural Center has hit maximum as far as entertainment goes, with CALIFORNIA, WELFARE, and the fabulous TOWER OF POWER. The theatre was so packed, they even sold standing room.

CALIFORNIA kicked off first with some fantastic music. They definitely have soul. I have always seemed to miss their other concerts here in the area, but I am glad I made this one. (I wouldn't have missed this one anyway, can you dig it?)

WELFARE came on very strong. The sister always gives it her all, but this time she held nothing back. But why not, with the back up group to carry her through, eh?

And TOWER OF POWER. Wow it's kind of hard to find words to express what happened up there on stage. But I know that they were everything I thought they were, and more. The lighting was right-on, everybodys vibes were in-tune, and EAST BAY GREASE were deep-fat frying!! The vocalist came on by saying, in so many words "Listen to what I have to say." Did you all dig "Soul-Vaccination?" And what about, "What is Hip?" Check it out..... TOWER OF POWER has their own style, and I've noticed that alot of groups fashion their style by T. of P. The man who played alto-sax, who also switched to clarinet at one point, writes 99 percent of their music. Dig where his head is at! On their new album he has written around 12 songs. After the show we caught them at the liquor store behind Mr. Ed's and brought them down to our own KZEN for a light weight interview. I'm sure it was hard for Michael to get any kind of serious interview but he succeeded in getting some kind of rap from them. The station was packed that evening. Whew, what a night.

On the 2nd and 3rd of March, the Del Rey Cultural Center and Monterey Productions are presenting a group who are kick-offs from SLY & THE FAMILY STONE - none other than THE GRAND CENTRAL STATION. I've heard tell the bass player from SLY, who wrote a lot of their music, has formed this group, and we will have the pleasure of digging this group here in Seaside. Tickets are only $2.50 and the time is 8:30 as usual.

JIMMY WITHERSPOON (THE SPOON) Review is coming this weekend at the San Carlos Hotel on the 23rd and 24th in the Pacific Room (no less!) I'm not sure of the time or price of this performance, but I know you'll want to check the SPOON out.

D'Ardis Productions bring the show of the year, featuring BOBBY FREEMAN and many others this Saturday at the Monterey Fairgrounds And, for the ladies, there's a miniskirt contest with a $25 cash prize. Girls, you know what you got to do! Tickets are $3 in advance and $3.50 at the door. There are two showings, 8 and 11 p.m.

Also, don't forget about MALCOLM X at the State Theatre on the 24th at 11 p.m. One show only. A percentage of the proceeds from the State Theatre's performance of MALCOM X will go to the Del Rey Cultural Center.

Will try to keep you informed. Later on.....

Cops Corner

By Jim Barnes

WILLIAM M. GULLETT

Since January 1969, the position of Assistant Police Chief has been held by William M. Gullett. Bill came to the Police Department in February 1958. In 1959 he was assigned to ride motorcycle with the traffic section. This ended in 1961 when he was promoted to Sergeant. In 1964 Bill was promoted to Lieutenant and a year later made Captain, serving as the patrol division commander.

Bill is a 1967 graduate of Monterey Peninsula College and during his tenure he has attended several institutes and seminars to include the Police Executive Management course at the University of California, Santa Cruz. He is active as an instructor at the Police Basic Course at Gavilan College and is a member of the Police Science advisroy board at Monterey Peninsula College.

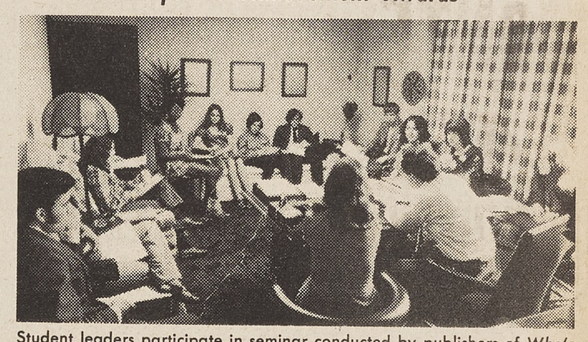

Bill is a native of the Los Angeles area and often quips, "that it is the greatest place in the world to be from." Enlisting in the Army in 1955, he served as a Military Policeman for three years. His last assignment was at the Ft. Ord Stockade and this led to his continued residence on the Peninsula where he lives with his family.

Away from the job, Bill enjoys golf, camping, water skiing, fishing, and hunting. Though he lays no claim to fame for his cooking talent, it is a pasttime that he enjoys and items like chiopino, mussels and squid have been enjoyed by many of his friends and fellow workers.

Future plans include a June graduation from Golden Gate College with a degree in the Adminstration of Justice and entering the Masters' program in Public Administration.

Bill often reflects that he has seen many changes in the community and though times have not always been smooth sailing, the reward has been in meeting these challenges. He is proud to be a part of a growing and progressive community and we are pleased to have him associated with the Seaside Police Department.

High School Juniors and Seniors Invited to Compete for Scholarships and Achievement Awards

Student leaders participate in seminar conducted by publishers of Who's Who Among American High School Students in Northfield, Ill. to create questions for firm's annual "Survey of High Achievers".

(NORTHFIELD, ILL.) Who's Who Among American High School Students, the nation's largest student award publication is now accepting applications from junior and senior class high school students interested in competing for honorary recognition awards and scholarship grants of $500.00 to $1,000.00. Eleventh and twelfth grade students should forward their applications stating name, address, high school, approximate grade point average and activities, to The Merit Selection Committee, Who's Who Among American High School Students, 540 Frontage Road, Northfield, Ill. 60093 within the next 30 days. Qualified students will have their biographies published in Who's Who and will be eligible for scholarship awards to the college or university of their choice.

The students who receive award recognition from Who's Who may also participate in the publication's annual "Survey of High Achievers", later in the academic year. "It is our conviction that the attitudes and opinions of these student leaders are as important and worthwhile as their academic achievements", states Paul C. Krouse, Who's Who publisher. Questions for the survey are created by a group of honor students during a seminar held in Chicago each spring. The resulting survey is then sent to all students scheduled to appear in the publication and their responses are tabulated and distributed to key government leaders, educators, research agencies, universities and the press.

MAKE READY - Mrs. Edward Jackemy (from left), Mrs. Barbara Patchell, Mrs. Christian Bachofer, general chairman and Mrs. James Johnson discuss display arrangements for "Second-Hand" Rummage Sale, which will be held this weekend, February 24 and 25 at 266 Alvarado Street, Monterey. Sponsored by Monterey Museum of Art, it will be open from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. For more information, call 372-2717.

BYU Dancers To Appear This Friday

The International Folk Dancers and Ballroom Dance Team from Brigham Young University will present an evening of dancing from around the world Friday, February 23, in the Monterey Peninsula College gymnasium.

Both dance groups have appeared in festivals and competitions throughout the United States and around the world. The folk dancers usually tour Europe each year.

The performance at MPC will begin at 8 p.m. The "International Holiday" program presents a preview of European festivals and ballroom dancing of the world. Dances from the U.S., Latin America, Poland, Austria, Yugoslavia, Israel, Britain, Hungary and the Ukarine are included on the program. The ballroom team will demonstrate many of the "fad" dances popular in American history.

The program is choreographed by Mary Bee Jensen and Roy Mavor, directors of the two groups. Polish dance numbers were choreographed by leading folk dance artist Marylka Klimeck, currently choreographer and dancer with "Slask," the Polish State Folk Ballet Company.

Yugoslavian numbers were choreographed by Elsie Dunin, a leading folk dance instructor from UCLA who has studied and danced with the Yugoslav dance company "Tenec."

The ballroom numbers were choreographed by Mavor and his wife, June, winners of the Western Australia Professional Exhibition Championships.

The International Folk Dancers have appeared on national television in Spain, France, and Norway, and they have received enthusiastic reviews from the press in every country in which they have appeared. The Ballroom Dance Team won the 1971 British Open Amateur Modern Ballroom Dancing Competition Formation Title. They also won a challenge match during the World's Amateur Modern Ballroom Dancing Championships in London's Royal Albert Hall. Their performance was seen on BBC-TV.

Admission to the MPC performance will be $1. Tickets will be sold at the door, or may be obtained in advance from MPC Community Services.

Use Labels On Tax Form

Tax practitioners and other preparers of tax returns should ask their clients for the State income tax forms booklet they received in the mail and use the pre-addressed label from the face of the booklet to assure faster and more accurate processing, Martin Huff, Executive Officer of the Franchise Tax Board, said recently.

The label, when peeled off the front of the tax package and placed at the top of the 540 form, will prevent errors in the name and social security numbers that could hold up refunds for numerous taxpayers, Huff said.

Even though the taxpayer has help on preparing his return, he can still affix the label to his State return before mailing it to the Franchise Tax Board to assure proper account identification and a prompt refund, according to Huff.

The SPARD

BY Charlene Thorson

The Seaside Park & Recreation Department has been in existence for a year and a half under the direction of Cleve Williams. "The SPARD" column was developed in order to provide the Seaside residents about the various activities and events offered by the Seaside Parks and Recreation Department. This column will appear weekly for your convenience.

Some of the highlights for this week are the following:

BATON PROGRAM: The first part of the week we had Baton Clinics at highland Elementary School and Juan Cabrillo. All schools in the Seaside area will have a clinic and parents are invited to attend. The clinics are presented by Jenny England, of the Monterey Monarchs and her staff. The City of Seaside will follow this up with an instructional program of scheduled Baton Classes. A fee of $7.50 per month will be charged.

NOCHE BUENA PLAYGROUND Noche Buena School now has an after school playground program. Amy Brooks will be the leader in charge of the after-school recreation which will consist of a variety of recreation activities designed to meet the needs of 1st to 3rd graders. Miss Brooks is a graduate of Oregon State University with a degree in Recreation. The hours will be 3:15-4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

YOUTH CENTER: The Seaside Youth Center has new extended hours. The teen drop-in center will be open to all youth Monday through Friday from 3 - 10 p.m., and Saturdays from 9 - 5 p.m. Activities include pool, ping pong, slot car racing, T.V., and record players. Dances will be held once a week for different age groups.

MINI-BIKE PROGRAM: The Mini-Bike Program has developed monthly races, (next race held March 18th) and a new club organization called the Seaside Spartans. The race track is located behind Seaside High School, car entrance off Coe Avenue. The Seaside Track was developed in cooperation with the Monterey Penninsula Unified School District. The Seaside Spartan Track is open with supervision on Saturday and Sundays from 12 to 5 p.m. extended hours of operation will begin in the spring.

The Seaside Park & Recreation Department is a service for the community. If you have ideas or questions on any of the events or programs, please call 394-8531 ext. 57 or 58. We are looking forward to hearing from you.

Lecture Planned

Dr. K.E. Woehler, associate professor of physics at the Naval Postgraduate School, will discuss the concept of time in a public lecture at the school February 26 at 8 p.m. in Ingersoll Hall.

His presentation, entitled "The Phenomenon of Time; An Enigma in Philosophy and Science," traces the history of man's conception of time and how his understanding of it has changed. The lecture is designed for laymen and scientist alike.

Dr. Woehler, a member of the Naval Postgraduate School Speakers Bureau, is appearing at the invitation of the Society of Sigma Xi, an honorary scientific fraternity.

EARNS BLOCK - Rick Dameron, Second Classman (Junior) from Marina has been awarded varsity "A" in cross country at U.S. Military Academy. Dameron, who has been important part of Cadet harrier squad, helped Army finish with their finest season since 1966 with 9-1 record. Dameron, two-year letterman, ran 26:19 for five mile race on West Point Course against Navy, November 25. This was best time of his career. Dameron, who also competes on indoor and outdoor track teams, is son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Dameron of Marina.

Antique Workshop

A workshop in understanding antiques will be offered at Monterey Peninsula College beginning Monday, February 26.

The series, designed for collectors, dealers and anyone interested in antiques, will run for eight consecutive weeks from 7 to 10 p.m. in room B-6. This how-to-do-it course will be concerned with identification, appraisal, collecting, buying and selling of antiques.

Louis Miller, the instructor, will conduct on-site visits to antique collections. He has been associated with three silver collections of American, English, Russian and Continental silver. Miller has also worked with curios, ancient art, postcards and collectibles. Currently, he is preparing a series of monographs on "new" antiques with discussions of the interests and activities of collectors, auctioneers and curators.

Registration should be completed before the first class meeting; there will be a charge of $24. Enrollment is limited to 30 persons. For information and registration, call Community Services at 375-9821 ext. 335.

Fly Fishing Workshop Is At MPC

Fundamentals in the science of fly fishing will be taught in a workshop sponsored by Monterey Peninsula college beginning Thursday, February 22.

The firxt class meeting will be devoted to selection of equipment which students will be expected to furnish for the workshop.

The course will meet in B-106 on Thursdays from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. for eight weeks. Tying artificial flies and casting the fly rod will be taught, along with the skills necessary to tie the dry fly, wet nymph and steamer fly.

Allen Pool, the workshop director, will discuss the prime fly fishing waters of California and other western states, plus the principal diet of trout and other game fish. Pool has been a fly fishing enthusiast for many years, and he is a member of the Salinas Valley Fly Fisherman's Club.

A $5 registration fee will be charged for the workshop. Enrollment will be limited to 30 students. A beginner's fly tying kit will be available on the first night of class. The kit, costing $22, contains tools and materials necessary for tying flies.

Dance Program Is Set

The Monterey Peninsula College Performing Dance Workshop will give a second performance of a modern dance program this Friday, February 23, at 6:30 p.m. in the MPC Theatre.

The first performance of the free concert was held in January before a packed audience. "We wanted to give the community a second chance to see the students," according to Carol Sullivan, director of the workshop.

The program will let out in time for those attending to be able to see the Brigham Young University Folk Dancers who will perform in the Gymnasium at 8 p.m. Admission to the folk dancing program is $1.

The MPC group is composed of students who have choreographed the concert in response to certain problems presented in the class. The program, titled "Implosion," features a variety of dance experiences, from a study based on triplets, to primitive movement, to isolations, to jazz. A special jazz number will be presented by Tani Croley.

The folk dance program at 8 p.m. will feature dances from around the world.

Press Becoming A 'Scapegoat,' Says NNPA's President

By Paul H. Wyche, Jr.,
National Black News Service

WASHINGTON -- The press is becoming a scapegoat for public officials who only want to cover up their own mistakes, Garth C. Reeves charged at the opening luncheon of the mid-winter workshop of the National Newspaper Publishers Association (NNPA).

The editor and publisher of the Miami Times and president of the 97-member organization of Black newspapers and magazines, Reeves warned his fellow publishers that existing laws "safeguarding" the press are inadequate.

"The press has lately become a scapegoat for vindictive judges and government authorities seeking to cover their own mistakes," he said.

"The frequency of these challenges to newsgathering efforts has prompted fears that a new judicial reign of terror may be descending on the mass media. Its object: to stifle dissent and journalistic initiative."

He pointed out that newsmen have always risked jail instead of naming the sources of their stories or the contenst of unpublished interviews, but only in the past four years have the courts throughout the nation begun to make these demands.

During the first two years of the Nixon Administration, more than 150 subpoenas were served on the news media.

The count of federal subpoenas was reduced because of new guidelines issued by the Justice Department in 1970, but the number of state and local subpoenas has now gone up sharply.

Although a number of states have laws on the books which appear to safeguard newspersons and their sources, Reeves contended these were fraught with loopholes.

"Eighteen states have laws protecting the confidentiality of newsman's sources," he pointed out, "but those laws are now being disparaged as inadequate.

"California, Maryland and New Jersey all have strong shield laws and reporters in all three states are serving or threatened with prison terms because of loopholes in the law or unusual court interpretations."

The Miami publisher claimed the attack on the freedom of the press was not one of bias but of confidentiality. He told his colleagues that the Black press will eventually be affected by current government moves which appear to be aimed at shackling the press.

He said the right of a free press is one of the basic concepts of the Constitution. He noted that the founding fathers found it such a basic precept that it is part of the First Amendment to the Constitution, which demanded that "Congress shall make no law ... abridging freedom of speech, or of the press ..."

Unfortunately, he said, the Constitution "does not define freedom of the press and though the amendment would seem to safeguard the right to publish the news, it doesn't extend the same blanket protection to the right to gather the news, unless by implication."

While the press itself is divided over what legislation, if any, should be enacted to preserve their cherished freedom of the press, the Administration is likewise ambivalent, he said.

Reeves said Herb Klein, President Nixon's communication director, emphasized in a recent interview that he thinks newsmen "have a need for confidentiality" but that corrective action should be sought "where the problems arise--in the state," through better protective legislation."

Reeves put part of the blame on the Administration, which he said had raised the issue to the state of urgency.

"When it attacks the credibility of the press, it encourages others to do so; when it seeks legal curbs of the traditional press freedoms it encourages others to do so," he said.

The attacks on the press, coupled with the increasing ineffectiveness of the Congress and the growing concentration of power in the White House has created an "alarming situation for the press," he told his audience.

Unless the press insures its freedom to carry out its responsibility to inform the public, the press will be unable to command the respect that it must have from the American people, Reeves warned.

What Heirs NeedToKnow

SAN FRANCISCO--The amount of income actually distributed to you from an estate or trust during the year is not necessarily the amount of income to be reported for tax purposes, according to the California Society of Certified Public Accountants.

Most banks, in their capacity as executors or trustees, send the beneficiaries a letter at the end of the year

Want More Take-Home Pay?

SAN FRANCISCO--From the California Society of Certified Public Accountants, here is something to watch for in connection with income taxes.

If you expect large itemized deductions for 1972 and 1973, you may claim extra exemptions or withholding allowances by filing a new Form W-4 with your employer.

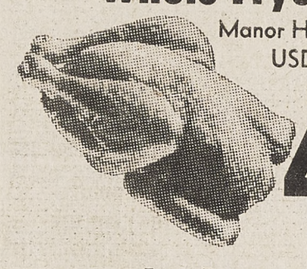

The number of additional withholding allowances which might be claimed is determined by completing Schedule A of Form W-4 and using the tables included.

Additional withholding allowances cannot be claimed until after you have filed your 1972 income tax return. Therefore, the earlier you file your 1972 return, the sooner you can reduce the income tax being withheld.

The fact that you filed for additional withholding allowances in 1972 does not carry over to 1973. A new Form W-4 and Schedule A must be filed for 1973.
